Risk factors

The performance data shown on this report is past performance; as such it is not a guide to future performance. Investors should remember that unit trusts should be regarded as long-term investments and that the value of units, and the income from them, can go down as well as up due to stock market and movements in exchange rates. When you sell your investment you may get back less than you originally invested. Where the fund holds bonds, their value is affected by interest rate fluctuations and by changes in the credit ratings of the underlying issuer of the assets.

All change

Factors

The popping of the credit bubble has marked an end to the era of rapid growth in private sector debt in the developed world. Structurally impaired financial systems and regulatory burdens ensure that credit will be less freely available, and this has profound implications for consumer-driven economies, all asset classes and investment strategies.

Developing economies

Factors

The influence of the developing world on the global economy continues to grow, and developing economies ultimately are on a convergence course, in terms of demographics and consumption trends, with the industrialised world. This long-term secular trend will entail the development of Western-style health and social security systems and will involve significant cyclical influences as well as frictions regarding trade policies.
